

SecureAware® Risk

- Do you want to know the risks facing your IT systems?
- Do you need to prioritize information security measures?
- Do you require an overview of how your IT systems relate to your specific business processes?
- Is collecting and managing risk assessments using spreadsheets in-efficient and time-consuming?

Today, risk management is a key element of both Corporate Governance and IT Governance practices. Public and private-sector companies alike need to face up to their operational risks. In fact, for many organisations, normal business is impossible without their IT systems. And over the past few years, all too many companies have ended up paying the high price of crashed systems and data loss.

Risk management helps individual companies form a clear picture of the specific risks facing them, enabling them to prioritise resources and strengthen information security initiatives.

SecureAware Risk makes it easy and straightforward for companies to carry out complex information security risk analysis – at both the preliminary level and on a recurring basis. SecureAware Risk provides a clear picture of the correlation between your business processes and your IT systems. Interview your system owners and IT managers – in several languages – and let SecureAware manage the results. View the easy-to-interpret results in a report format of your choice, offering several levels of detail and versions for different target groups.
